About 12 o'clock the same night the brother and sister were aroused from their shunders by knocks at the door and a demand for a limitance Knocks at the (toor and a demand for a limitance.

They soon recognized the voice of the neighbor and supposed friend. The young woman told like Price of coats. For sale at high brightness to go and for him is, which he proceeded to do, when, as he opened the door, he was suddenly struck with an axe on the hend, inflicting a forrible wound. He, however, quickly recovered his senses, and immediately grappled with the murderer. By this time the sister heard the scuille, and cannot bravely to the assistance of her brother. They succeeded in putting the vilain out and fastening the door. The woman then managed to bring the young man to his bed again. The bailled man broke the door again, rushed in, and seized Turasate the boar 18 miles and properties. the door again, reshed in, and seized Turner's gan to linish his herrible batchery. The young swoman again grappled with him, and actually succeeded in Greating the gap from his hands, and three it out of the window. She then tried to make here cape, but, when in the act of climbing out of the window, she was again met by the murderer, who had gone around and and climbed up the porch to head her off. He had the gun in his hands once more, and took deliberate aim at her head and firerd, but, at that instant, she threw a chair down upon him. The shot, however, struck the poor girl in the arm, causing a frightful wound. She's then escaped through the back door, made her way to the nearest neighbors, and gave the alarm.

The supposition is that, while she was away, the inhuman wretch that young Turser as he lay in hed writhing in agony from the blows of the axe. He then set fire to the house, and it soon lay a heap of ashes, with the bones of the numbered hoy and the little girl, Smith, who perished in the flames. On Friday morning was found in the bay, lying in his shift, with half his head blown from his body, and the gun hy his side discharged. The father of the supsed murderer is a respectable man.

The New Orleans Dillor of the 3d, says, in reference to papers received from rebel sources, that the bombardment of Port Hadson by the gunbosts is continued, and it was supposed that a land atnek would soon be made.

The Vicksburg Citizen of the 28th alt., has the illowing: We have further contemation of the amor that Banks had landed at least a nortion of his troup out Baton Rogue, and that he had established his headquarters at that city. On the river above, the battle is close at hand. The fleet of gualioats and transports, carrying an immenso ar my, is now in the instructions vicinity of this city It is supposed that they will bring an army of one hundred and ninety Thousand men to reduce this place. Sumerical strength will avail them nothing in an attack on Vicksburg, and we predict for them the most disestrons defeat that they have yet met with in tids war.

WASHINGTON LYEDS.

New York, Jan. 12.

The Times Washington despatch has the following: Col. Ludlow has just returned from City Point on a districted boot and remorts, that a conference with Mr. Ould confederate commissioner for the exchange of prisoners has resulted in an important arrangement by which about twenty thousand Union officers and men previously paroled are restored to active service. Col. Ludlow also states that he has every reason to believe that the rebel government will violate the previous agreement and acting on the proplamation of Jeff. Davis formally refuse during the coming week to make future exchanges of our commissioned officers. He returns to-morrow on a dispatch boat and will vis City Point again on Turaday. The Times also has the following: Descritions of late have become so numerous that the Secretary of War has determinied to adopt the most stringent measures to secure the return of delimpoents. He has become convinced that the system adopted sometime ago is entirely inadequate and has decided to remove Mr. Drapes and to place the business in the bands of Gen. Wool with full power for its execution. The Herald's Washington despatch say: A great deal of indignation has been expressed by the intelligence of the capture of Galveston and its garrison and the capture by the rebels of the Harriet Lane. Various rumors are in circulation by known to the Generalisest except through the IGNORANCE OF CTACK DOCTORS AND NOSTRE Bielanoud papers of yesterday, which published the official report of the tebel commander at Galveston. It is believed nore that the scheme to ent out the liarriet Lane and the Westfield was devised at Richmond in imitation of like exploits against british vessels in our early history. It is supposed that the officers and crews sent from Richmond were ready and that the Harriet Lane is already after our croisers in the Gulf. She is swift and strongly famed.
